

ACUPO Early Academic Leadership Award – Eligibility, Criteria, Nomination Process

OVERVIEW

This national award is granted to an early-career ophthalmologist (less than 10 years in active practice) who has made significant contributions to the academic mission for ophthalmology at their centre prior to the current nomination period.

ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA

Nominee must:

- Be nominated by a faculty member from a Canadian academic centre for ophthalmology
Nominators can include the department/division Academic Chair or Clinical Chief. A nominee cannot nominate him/her/themself.
- Have not received this award previously.
- Be in good standing with the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada, their provincial regulatory body, with active membership in the Canadian Ophthalmological Society. The nominee must be in active practice and in compliance with all licencing requirements.

SELECTION CRITERIA

- The value and impact of the candidate's contributions rather than the office or title of position(s) held.
- A demonstrated history of leadership and/or service contributions at an academic centre for ophthalmology prior to the current nomination period.
 - Exceptions to this requirement are at the discretion of the Review Committee in cases where contributions are exceptional and extraordinary.
- Leadership and service may be exclusively to a community, academic or clinical department, university more broadly, or a combination herein.
 - This breadth ensures that candidates whose contributions beyond their primary context are also appropriately recognized.
- Contributions must be in one or more of the following areas and must directly impact the field of ophthalmology. The Nominator must clearly demonstrate concrete examples of these to clearly convey the impact of the nominee's leadership and volunteer contributions.
 - Actively promoting equity, diversity and inclusivity in ophthalmology within their primary context and more broadly;

- Leadership on committees along with demonstrated influence on the delivery of ophthalmic services and/or education and/or research;
- Sustained and/or high-impact volunteer service directly resulting in improved quality of life of patients, colleagues, learners, and/or support staff;
- Inspiring and facilitating the personal and/or professional development of others within the profession, including learners.
- Leadership and/or service directly facilitating the engagement of patients, colleagues, learners and/or support staff;
- A clearly demonstrated commitment to advocating for the field of ophthalmology in positive and progressive ways.

NOMINATION PROCESS

The nominator should complete the Nomination Form in conjunction with the nominee.
